Jocelyn begins an internship here in April and May Meet Jocelyn Snider

A publication of Holy Spirit Episcopal Church

Jocelyn Snider will be doing an internship at Holy Spirit for six weeks this spring. If her face looks familiar, it might be because you've seen her in publicity for Camp Marshall. She will be the summer Program Director there.

Jocelyn has been a long-time member at St. Paul's in Hamilton. She has been active for years, serving as Senior Warden several times and leading Godly Play, and she is currently a worship leader. Jocelyn has been attending the diocese's School for Deacons, and in 2021 she completed a discernment group (with the support and participation of a few members of Holy Spirit as well). Through this process Jocelyn has discerned a call to the priesthood. At St. Paul's we are not surprised. We are thrilled for her and joyful as we witness so many new opportunities presenting themselves in her life.

She plans to begin seminary in the fall, and in preparation for this change in life direction the bishop has designed a two-step internship for her. She is currently doing six weeks at St. Stephens in Stevensville, learning about ministry in an ultrasmall congregation. This will be followed by six weeks at Holy Spirit to learn about ministry in a large congregation.

Look for Jocelyn in April and May. She will be here about five hours a week. We don't yet know the exact shape her ministry will take while she is with us. We do know she'll be observing, learning, and practicing ministry within our presence. Please keep Jocelyn and her family in your prayers during this exciting and stressful time of life transition.

From the Rector God is still with us, and new growth is at hand

I have only recently begun to appreciate history of all kinds. Most of my advanced study was focused on the sciences, and it wasn't until seminary that I really began to learn history in a broader way. While I was home recuperating from surgery in recent weeks, I chose to do some continuing education from offerings of The Great Courses online that included archeology of the Bible; understanding how early Christian understanding of Jesus evolved over time: the Celtic world: and also, one about the great trials of history. The surprise was how much history I learned from each different subject and how they all intertwined. It was an interesting 48 hours of study.

Some periods of history clearly stand out. Each one of us is influenced by those experiences based on our age, where we have lived, and what events were particular to those times or the times in which our elders lived. Today is one of those periods that will stand out because of the Covid-19 pandemic and the fact that it has touched everyone in a global way. Such events remind us that life has always involved upheaval and change, interpreted as good or ill, and never stops shifting for long. Our faith journeys have always been this way with some of the most impactful moments being those where we feel we are broken open beyond repair and then discover God is still with us and new growth is at hand.

We need to remember this when our hybrid lives of the present make us yearn for the past. The Spirit moves where it will, the scriptures tell us. Will we be open to the tilling and breaking open of the soil that are our lives in order for new life to emerge? Our journey is not so different in our own day from that of Jesus and his disciples heading toward Jerusalem. May we be open to the movement of the Spirit and whatever comes, the potential for new life always bursting forth.

When does Baptism take place at Holy Spirit?

Holy Baptism is full initiation by water and the Holy Spirit into Christ's Body the Church. Baptism takes place during the Easter Vigil service (Saturday evening, in April), and at a Sunday service about three times a year: the Day of Pentecost (the first Sunday in June this year), the Sunday after All Saints' Day (early November), and the Feast of the Baptism of our Lord (the first Sunday after Epiphany, in early January). Baptism may also take place when the bishop visits (in December this year), and on a Sunday during the summer on a date to be determined. If you are interested in Baptism for yourself or for your child, preparation needs to take place. Please contact the office at (406) 542-2167 to speak with our rector, The Rev. Terri Ann Grotzinger.

The next date for Baptism will be on the Day of Pentecost, June 5, at the 10:15 am service..

Rio Grande Borderlands Ministries A reflection on immigration

By the time this edition of the Paraclete arrives in your mailbox, the listening pilgrimage to the borderlands will be complete. Next month the Paraclete will feature a new series, "Stories from the Border." Each month one of our pilgrims will offer a story or reflection from their journey. While we wait to hear about their experiences, I invite you to use the "Immigrants' Creed" to reflect on immigration as part of your own family history. As you read, try placing yourself within the Creed, as a child of God and as a descendant of immigrants.

- AUDREY MURRAY

The Immigrants' Creed*

I believe in Almighty God, who guided the people in exile and in exodus, the God of Joseph in Egypt and Daniel in Babylon, the God of foreigners and immigrants.

I believe in Jesus Christ, a displaced Galilean, who was born away from his people and his home, who fled his country with his parents when his life was danger, and returning to his own country suffered the oppression of the tyrant Pontius Pilate, the servant of a foreign power, who then was persecuted, beaten, and finally tortured, accused and condemned to death unjustly. But on the third day, this scorned Jesus rose from the dead, not as a foreigner but to offer us citizenship in heaven.

April 2022

I believe in the Holy Spirit, the eternal immigrant from God's kingdom among us, who speaks all languages, lives in all countries, and reunites all races.

I believe that the church is the secure home for the foreigner and for all believers who constitute it, who speak the same language and have the same purpose. I believe that the communion of the saints begins when we accept the diversity of the saints.

I believe in the forgiveness of sins, which makes us all equal, and in reconciliation, which identifies us more than does race, language, or nationality.

I believe that in the resurrection God will unite us as one people in which all are distinct and all are alike at the same time.

Beyond this world, I believe in life eternal in which no one will be an immigrant but all will be citizens of God's kingdom, which will never end. Amen.

*The Immigrants' Creed was written by José Luis Casal, a Cuban immigrant and past director of the Presbyterian World Mission. Today the Immigrants' Creed is used in a variety of Christian worship traditions and was recently featured in The Episcopal Church's "Virtual Lenten Borderland Experience."

Join us for the Maundy Thursday prayer vigil

As we anticipate Holy Week, plan now to participate in our annual overnight prayer vigil which begins after the Maundy Thursday service on April 14th. Call the church office to sign up or write your name in on a one-hour time slot on the poster available at church. Prayer begins at 8:00 pm and runs through the night ending at 7:00 am.

On Maundy Thursday we remember the Last Supper, and we recall Jesus's time in the Garden of Gethsemane [See Matthew 26]. Jesus asked the disciples to watch and pray while he went further on to pray by himself. When Jesus returned, the disciples were sleeping. Again and again, he went to pray and each time he returned, he discovered their eyes were heavy, and they were asleep. It was soon after this that Judas came with a whole crowd of chief priests and elders. They came carrying swords and clubs, and the disciples fled. So, on this night, Maundy Thursday, we choose intentionally to sit up, to watch, to pray with Jesus, as we remember his fervent prayer in the Garden and his arrest by the authorities.

Ideally, two participants sign up for each of the one-hour blocks and come to the church to pray. There will

The Good Friday Offering will support the Episcopal Church in the Middle East and Jerusalem

Since 1922, Episcopalians have supported the ministries of the Episcopal Church in Jerusalem and the Middle East through the Good Friday Offering. Through the work of the Episcopal dioceses in the Middle East, Christians maintain a peacemaking and stabilizing presence in the region, serving their neighbors regardless of faith background.

Whether funding a hospital in Gaza or the West Bank, or an eye clinic in Aden, or women's programs, or summer camps and leadership training for young people, the Good Friday Offering is making a difference in the lives of so many.

We hope you will participate in this effort. Use the church app to give (Choose "Good Friday" from the dropdown menu of funds) or place your gift in the offering plate at the back of the church on Good Friday. Thank you in advance for your generosity.

Creation Care Ministry Going solar at home

There are many items to consider when thinking about going solar, including the cost and how much of your energy do you want to produce both now and in the coming years. These and a few other considerations are discussed briefly below.

Cost. The cost has come down considerably in recent years and continues to do so. However, we all have our own definition of 'reasonable,' so you won't know until you get an estimate if this will work for you.

There are federal and state tax credits available to help offset the cost.

Will you be paid for the excess energy you produce? This may be true if you purchase electricity from a "cooperative" or a company other than NorthWestern Energy, but if you are dealing with NorthWestern Energy, this is not the case. They reset accounts to "zero" on March 31 of each year, and you lose any credits you may have built up.

Finding a reliable and knowledgeable company to help sort through all of the information (and possible misinformation) circulating about solar panels. Do you know anyone that has installed solar panels? Another source of information might be members of our Vestry as they have been involved in this project.

Net-metering, contract with NorthWestern Energy. I had some concern about negotiating permits, net-metering with NorthWestern Energy. However, I discovered that this was not as complicated as I had feared. In fact, the vendor I used took care of handling everything with NorthWestern Energy.

Battery Backup. I had hoped that I would be able to store my excess energy but found this is fairly expensive at this time. I also found out that one battery would not back up everything; rather it would back up one circuit. You can't just switch from backing up your furnace to your air conditioner by simply flipping a switch.

My local vendor assured me that the price on these is coming down, and they will likely become more flexible or adaptable, so this is a possibility for the future.

What percentage of your current electric consumption do you plan to produce, and will your needs increase significantly? My original bid was to cover 80% of my consumption over the prior year. I increased the number of panels as I wanted to produce 100% + of my typical electricity consumption as I plan on switching to an all-electric vehicle at some point. My first winter with solar panels was a learning experience.

In addition to having less sunshine in the winter, the panels can be covered with snow thus producing nothing part of the year. We got so much snow in December that my panels were not completely clear until February.

How rapidly the panels clear is somewhat dependent on the slope of the roof they are installed on. Driving around town I noticed panels on steeper roofs were clearer than mine. When I discussed this with the vendor, I was assured that this did not mean I was producing less electricity over the year as the panels on the flatter roofs produce more in the summer.

As the snow started to melt and slide off the panels, it created something of an ice dam at the bottom of the panels. I am considering adding heating coils to the roof to help clear the roof and to allow the snow to more easily slide off the panels. Having done this in the past for different reasons, I know that an on/off switch is essential so that you are not using electricity to heat these year-round and are only heating them when needed.

I noticed that there are companies that will "clean" solar panels. I checked with my vendor and was assured this is not necessary, that the snow sliding off of them cleans them adequately. Overall, this has been a very positive experience.
